Vile Odors Threatening the Health Share of the Estate of $1,500,000. of a Populous District.

The Health Board to Be Asked to Close the Factory.

" It's like backing a man of straw against a man of fron " is the way Mr. J. O'Brien, of 89. Monroe street, expresses the futility of the efforts of the people living in the neighbor-hood of Fay's soap factory at 92 Monroe street, to get rid of the abominable smells which at times make the vicinity almost un inhabitable.

" Mr. Fay's a rich man; he's worth millions," continued Mr. O'Brien, " and we're all poor people living around here. What can we do? The Board of Health sends a man around, and for a week jor two, maybe, the bad smell is stopped, but it soon breaks out widely known in amateur athletic circles. It dered down from the cab, and, after detailing

If a Health Inspector had visited the neighborhood yesterday afternoon, he would have found cause enough for complaint. Clouds of steam, laden with vile edors, blew out of the big open doors of the soap factory and filled the air with a nauseating smell.

It is so at least twice a week, an Evenino World reporter was informed and in the summer the stench is even more terrible. Now the doors and windows of the thickly populated the doors and windows of the thickly populated the property of the stout door fat and falling, tried to pry it open, but the stout door folled all their efforts, and after spending about ten minutes in this work they put a charge of dynamite under the door and blew it open.

As soon as the door was broken the four men leaped in. But in warm weather only poverty makes the vile odors bearable.

"Yes, it smells rather strong this afternoon," said Mr. John Cooper, of 101 Monroe street, "but you ought to come around here the street, "but you ought to come around here the street, "but you ought to come around here the street, "but you ought to come around here the street, "but you ought to come around here the street, "but you ought to come around here the street house the street house noon," said Mr. John Cooper, of 101 Monroe street, "but you ought to come around here on awarm, mugy day, when the wind does not carry it away quite so fast.

"Then you would wonder how the people around here live with such a smell filling their rooms. It's no place for a soap factory, it ought to be located at liunter's Point, or some other place where it wouldn't be some other place where it wouldn't be noticed.

"Why don't the people move? That's what Fay says. Let 'em ail move away and he won't growl. But they can't. They've got to have some place to live downtown. And it doesn't seem just right that one man should force thousands out of the neighborhood.

"The slittle odd, but Stern & Co. weren't allowed to run a soap factory down in Ruley letter the town."

"They all the odd would be better if the factory was away. But what are you going to dabout it?"

That seems to be the prevailing feeling in the vicinity. For some reason the people think that appears to the Board of Realization are useless. He created the content of the content o neignborhood in which a similar nulsance is tolerated?" they ask.

"Mr. Fay has become rich making soan," said Mrs. Cohen, of 89 Monree street. "Not a bir of his soap is sold in New York, I understand. It is all exported. Certainly his property would be more valuable if I was occupled by tenements, and it is reasonable to suppose that he could conduct his business cheaper in a place like Hunter's Point, where other bad smells have been banished to. But he won't sell and he doesn't stop the smell.

"Complaint after complaint has been sent to the Board of Health, but they don't result in anything. The smells stop for awhile, and then when the agitation is over the factory sends out smells as bad as ever."
There is talk among the tenants how of getting up a petition asking the Board of Health to declare the soap factory a nulsance and order it closed, as was done in the case of the Standard Gaslight Company's works.

MAMIE BISHOP'S SUDDEN DEATH. Asbury Park People Now Say it Was Due to Malpractice.

ABBURY PARK, N. J., Dec. 1.—The sudden Oliver Springs Men Won't Work POINT TO THE EVENING WORLS Miss Mamie Bishop, the stepdaughter of David W. Rowland, of West Park causing much talk in this communit, where the girl had a large circle of friends. The opinion now prevalls that Miss Bishop's death was caused, not by morphine poisoning, as was at first thought, but by a criminal operation performed upon her by some person as yet unnamed.

Coroner Van Dyde and Drs. Brown and Johnson, under whose direction the autopsy was held, absolutely refuse to say anything regarding the case. This reticence on their part has tended to strengthen the belief that the unfortunate girl was a victim of mail-practice.

KNOXVILLE, Tenu., Dec. 1.—Information reached this place last night of more trouble to the mining region at Oliver Springs. This is one of the places where the stockade and other property was burned and the convicts released.

There has been another reign of terror there during the last three or four days. It started Friday night when the free places were the stockade and other property was burned and the convicts released.
